Ryan Cohen
iOS Developer

616 Garden Street #4
Hoboken, NJ 07030

908.839.3634
notryancohen@gmail.com

Skills

Objective-C, Swift, Git, Xcode,

REST APIs, Open-source, iOS SDK

Experience

McRoberts Security Technologies/ Software Developer
DEC 2012- FEB 2015, FREEHOLD, NJ

I ported Android projects to iOS, planned and developed new iOS software in Objective-C, and worked with software being used in production.

Quo / iOS Engineer & UI Designer
MAY 2014- SEPTEMBER 2014, NEW JERSEY

Quo was a continued hackathon project that won first place in May of 2014. We revamped it, pushed it to the app store, and had a number of active users. It is no longer available.

Dormsnap / iOS Engineer & UI Designer
MAY 2016-PRESENT HOBOKEN, NJ

An iOS app for college students to share their dorm room styles and be able to find and purchase items found in posts by other users.

Education

Flatiron School / iOS
JUNE 2016-AUGUST 2016, MANHATTAN, NY

I am an accepted student at the Flatiron School where from Monday through Friday, 9 AM to 6 PM, I am working on projects and learning more about my craft.

Pace University / CS
SEP 2015-MAY 2016,MANHATTAN, NY

I attended Pace as a freshman student studying CS. I finished my programming class with an A before leaving to attend the Flatiron School.

Ocean County College/ CS
SEP 2014-JANUARY 2015 TOMS RIVER, NJ

I took Programming I and finished with an A.

Awards

WWDC Student Scholarship / Apple
JUNE 2012 SAN FRANCISCO, CA

I attended Pace as a freshman student studying CS. I finished my CS class with an A before leaving to attend Flatiron.

Best App Award/ Winter CodeDay
JANUARY 2014 MANHATTAN, NY

I worked alone and created an app called Codefriend, which would pair you up with an ideal programming acquaintance based on certain filters.

Best App Award/ Spring CodeDay
MAY 2014 MANHATTAN, NY

A friend and I wrote an app called Quo, which was a social creative writing platform for iOS. It went on to be published in the App Store but is no longer available.

Flatiron Newsletter/ June 2016
JUNE 2016 MANHATTAN, NY

A blog post I wrote was featured in the June 27th issue of the Flatiron Newsletter.